

FCC,
XM satellite radio allows free enterprise and free competition in radio broadcast. XM will benefit, inform, and serve the public with local content. It can inform the public about severe weather and of course weather in general.

If a company wants to advertise on XM on a local repeater, it will provide free enterprise giving companies a choice how they wish to spend their advertising budgets rather than being bullied by huge radio ownerships that have a virtual monopoly on the market and thus the market's radio advertising options and rates.

It will benefit the American people, and the concept of free enterprise to allow Satcasters to provide local content.

Bran Boles